

In 1959 Che Guevara was the governor of the La Cabana prison. He was responsible for the execution of hundreds, if not thousands (reports vary). Che Guevara was instrumental in establishing concentration camps in Cuba. In these, dissidents, homosexuals, Catholics and other people who didn't fit into the system were forced to work in inhuman conditions, and many of them died. In 1961 Che Guevara became minister of economic affairs. His reality-defying planned economy took only a short time to destroy Cuba's economy and introduced widespread hunger to the country. Amongst the leaders of the Cuban Revolution, Che Guevara stood out for identifying closely and uncritically with the Soviet Union. He strongly identified with and worshipped the mass murderer Stalin. In 1962 Che Guevara travelled to the USSR and negotiated the stationing of Soviet nuclear weapons in Cuba. The Cuban Missile Crisis nearly led to WW3. After the crisis had passed, Che Guevara remarked to a British journalist that he would have fired the missiles at the USA if he had controlled them. Towards the end of his life, Che Guevara turned his back to the USSR because he felt that they made too many compromises in their communist ideology. Instead he began to see the ideal communist state in the China of the mass murderer Mao Zedong.
